

Accessory Use or Building

A subordinate use, building or structure customarily incidental or subordinate to, and located on the same lot as the main use or building. The term Accessory Building includes, but is not limited to, private garages, gardens or barns, playhouses, greenhouses, swimming pools, outside furnaces, tennis courts, pavilions, gazebos, patios, storage buildings, tree-houses, workshops and hot tubs. By special exception, this also applies to uses which are not on the same lot as the main use or building.
